John Wolfe: London, [1598]
"This inestimable book, a treasure of all the learning respecting the East and West-Indies and the navigation thither, at the end of the sixteenth century, has been in the highest esteem for nearly a century, and was given to each ship sailing to India, as a log-book. Hence the many editions (6 in Dutch, 3 in French and 1 in Latin), which is also the cause why fine copies, especially with all the plates and maps, are so very rare. A large part of the book is occupied by translations of original Spanish and Portuguese documents on geography, ethnography, statistics and navigation, etc., and in these respects it is of the highest importance and authority. The description of America occupies pp. 17-82, of the third part."—F. Muller.

A. M. for Geo. Calvert: London, 1653
"This book was drawn up by the appointment of the General Court of Massachusetts, at a time when theological hair-splitting in the legislature held the place of modern log rolling. Pynchon's book was forbidden to enter New England under penalty, and this censure was backed, in a long letter at the end, by five of the chiefest of the ruling Elders of Boston, rebuking the English Ministers who had recommended Pynchon's book. Nothing daunted two years later Pynchon hurled at the heads of the General Court, and the Boston Elders another thick 4to book under a similar title."

The Discoverie of the Large, rich and bewtiful Empire of Guinea, with a Relation of the Great and Golden Citie of Manoa, and the Provinces of Emeria, etc., Performed in the years 1595. pp. 112. Small 4° red crushed levant morocco, extra, gilt edges, by PRATT. Robert Robinson: London, 1596
 "This book very seldom occurs for sale. This results from the double demand, on one side, in the market for early works of discovery in America, and on the other, from collectors of Elizabethan literature. The great name of Raleigh lends a treble value to his English text as compared with the Latin translation, although the latter is adorned with plates, and very rare. The "Discoverie" is also interesting as having been read by Shakespeare, and as having afforded him matter for illusion. Indeed, the influence of Raleigh's Guiana is found throughout English Literature in the entire seventeenth century."—Quaritch Cat.

This is an early narrative of the first serious trouble with the Indians, in 1637, the Pequot War. Captain Underhill was commander of the Massachusetts forces at the storming of the fort.

The plan of the Indian fort is executed with a pen. Two leaves are too closely trimmed at the bottom.

Capt. Underhill was one of the three deputies from Boston to the General Court, and one of the earliest officers of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co.

[St. Dié,] Septembris, 1507

This rare tract by Waldsee-Müller contains the Latin version of Vespucius' epistle to Soderini, giving a brief account of his four voyages.

"The idea of calling the newly discovered world AMERICA originated with the compiler of the work before us. The suggestion to which we owe our national name will be found on the reverse of the fifteenth leaf." See reproduction.

"The authorship of this exceedingly rare pamphlet, has been attributed to Vincent by the Publishing Committee of the Massachusetts Historical Society, in their note to the reprint of the Relation, in the third volume of their collections."

"It is a narrative of the battle with the Pequods, fought by Captains Mason and Underhill, an account of which was written by the last doughty commander and printed in 1638 under the title of News from America (No. 3573) Vincent's Relation is of even greater rarity than Underhill's. This is attested by the fact that the reprint named was made from a mutilated copy, the imperfections of which were uncorrected in the reprint, from the impossibility of finding a perfect copy for comparison."—Field's Indian Bibliography.
